

Globalization and Its Discontents: Economic Nationalism in the 21st Century

Kim Lopez

PhD

Trinity College Dublin
College Green, Dublin 2, Ireland

Pat Roberts

Dr.

University of Malaya
50603 Kuala Lumpur, Federal Territory of Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

Skyler Garcia

Prof.

Cairo University
Cairo University Rd, Oula, Giza District, Giza Governorate 12613, Egypt

Abstract. This article explores the resurgence of economic nationalism in the context of globalization. We analyze the factors driving this trend and its implications for international economic relations. The study provides a nuanced understanding of how economic nationalism is reshaping global economic policies and trade dynamics.

Keywords: Globalization, Economic Nationalism, International Trade, Global Economic Policies, Trade Dynamics

Introduction

The rise of economic nationalism in the 21st century poses significant challenges to the established norms of globalization. This paper explores the factors contributing to the resurgence of economic nationalism, examining its implications for international economic relations. By analyzing the motivations behind this trend and its impact on global trade dynamics, we provide a nuanced understanding of how economic nationalism is reshaping economic policies worldwide. Our study aims to offer insights into the future of globalization and the potential for conflict or cooperation in international trade.

This is a preliminary version. To read the full version of the article, please purchase a subscription.

References

1. Jeyhun, R., Elshan, R., Naila, A., & Aydin, N. (2025). Effectiveness of Internet of Things migration into hybrid economic projects.
2. Rahimov, J., Rahimov, E., Nasirzade, A., & Yusifli, P. (2025). Economic aspects of projects based on the Internet of Things. Innovation and Sustainability Articles, 5(4), 31-44.